"All the world's a stage," claimed Shakespeare, and all of us are the players. The stage, it is said, is simply an exaggeration of life. Our lives are full of conflicts, climaxes, moments in the limelight. All of us have our own unique character whether it be ingenuer or clown or hero. We play our parts as best we can. For the Freshmen the Show is just beginning. For the Seniors, the Show's drawing to a close. In school and out of school, life can be comical, tragic, farsical, melodramatic and, yes, it may even be a flop.

"All The World's A Stage"

And All the Men and Women Merely Players”

INTERMISSION'S OVER

And still, we try to play our scenes with grace and dignity, even when the vending machines in the Commons steal our whole week's allowance; or we fail a math test; or our date gets sick the night of the Homecoming dance. The Show must go on! Seniors now must make decisions concerning their future roles in the world — what parts to play, which road to choose. They are about to be re-cast into the "real" world, and the climax of their twelve years in school — Graduation — is finally here. On with the Show . . .

The Show Begins Again . . .

And Now the Stage

We are finally complete: ninth through twelfth grades and our new auditorium. This year, with the coming of the freshmen, a whole new group of teachers came to W-L. Suddenly, rooms were scarce. Storage rooms, "open" areas, the library, and the ed-center were being used as classrooms. Room shortage speeded up the long overdue completion of the new theatre. Our new school was finally finished. The only construction noises we had to deal with then were the one's from the construction of I-66, which began during the summer and continued through the year. W-L had to make a lot of adjustments — adjusting to the freshmen, the new theatre and the shows, the new teachers, the small lunches, and the crowded halls and classes. But now W-L is complete. Curtain Up! Action!

Behind every successful man is a successful woman, or vice-versa, nowadays; and so, too, behind every successful show is a successful director. In the case of school, the cast is so large that to direct the cast of 1800, over 100 directors are needed — for each class, each period, each day. These are the teachers, who direct the W-L students toward knowledge.

Dear Seniors:

You are graduating at a time when your opportunities for the future appear to be many and varied. What is to be your destiny is always a quandry and you will be looking at all the options available to you -- college, work, armed services, travel, and many others. It is a natural tendency for young men and women to be looking ahead.

However, it is also natural, as well as desirable to look back and examine what you have been. You are able to learn much from your past experiences.

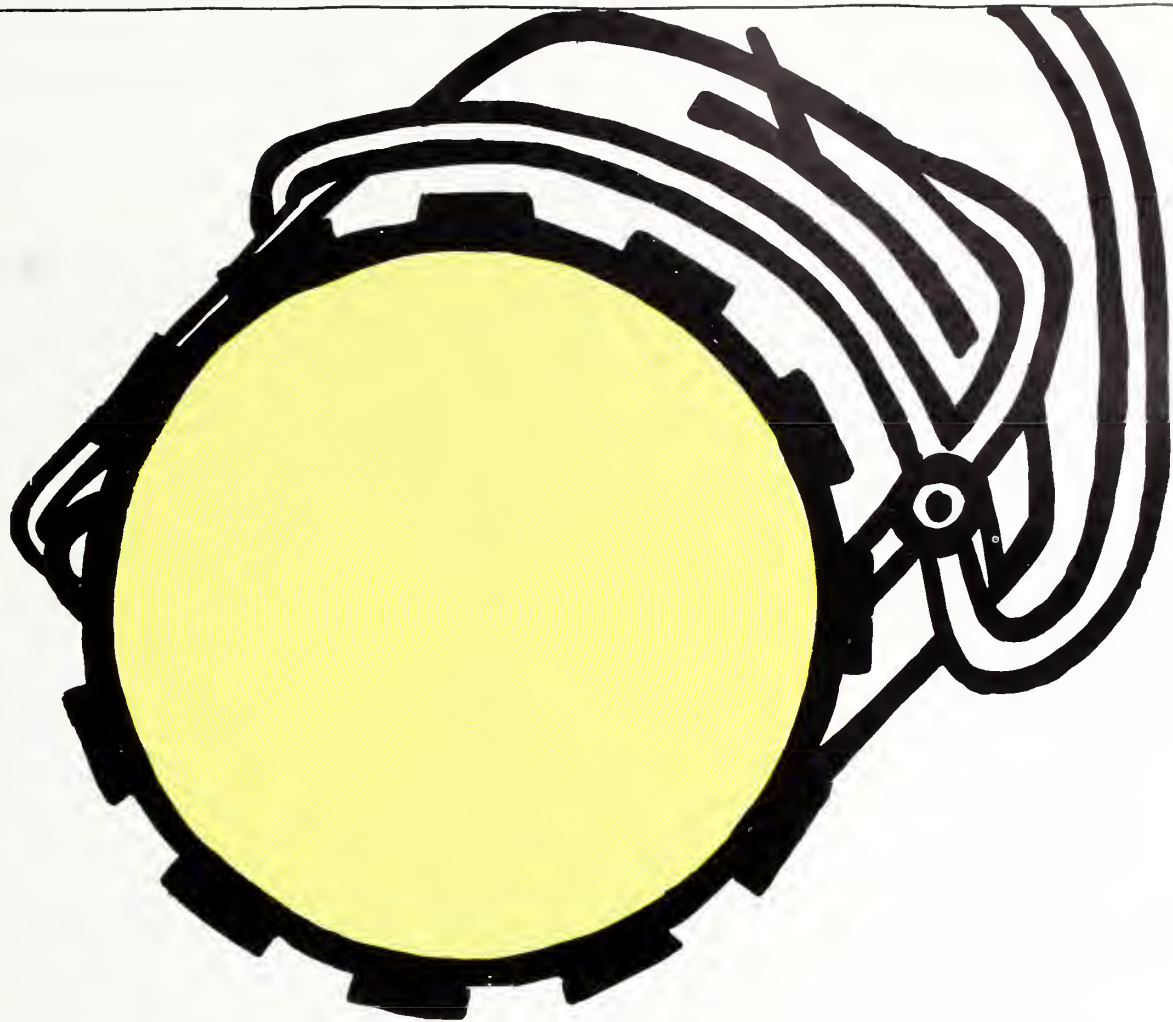

This book will provide you with many memories that will forever be burned into your mind. Your memories will produce a spectrum of emotions within you. They will make you laugh, cry, angry, happy, or sad.

It is important, though, to remember that a person is a combination of his past experiences and what dreams are held within his mind for the future. Meld the two together carefully.

Best wishes to all of you.

ACT I MORNING

Scene 1:

We've only just begun.

Washington-Lee was an extremely vivacious place at 7:30 in the morning. Students could be found participating in many diverse activities. A well known sound on Friday mornings was the Marching Band's arousing music. The Band (this page bottom, right) was led by the majorettes Debbie Pattison, Amber Brenner and Katie Wulf.

Scene 2: Period 1: Students

Learn trades at the Career Center

When a student recognizes a particular job field that interests him, he must meet the challenge, and explore that career. To gain experience and on-the-job training is the main objective of the Career Center. Students explore and prepare for the decision of immediate employment, or continuing their education at a more advanced level. The Career Center provides students with a unique opportunity for making future career decisions.

Talents of Many

Mark Moody and Linda Gilbert rehearse for a performance.

The Art and Music Departments at W-L add flair to the school. The Art Department has been busy painting bare walls with bright scenes and designs. Art is not just painting — there are photography courses, ceramics, crafts, sign painting, and many other visual design courses. The Music Department covers all facets of music: vocal, instrumental, and theatrical. The Madrigals, Choir, and Chorus demonstrate the many levels of vocal talent, all under the direction of Dr. Baxter. There are varied courses in instrumental music: performing courses such as Band, Orchestra, Concert Band, Marching Band, Stage Band, and String Quartet. There are also learning courses such as Guitar, and Music Theory, in which students often compose their own pieces. All these cultural courses are reflected and touched upon by the Art-English-Music-Seminar.

Assemblies Added

Spice to W-L Life

Assemblies were an important part of student life at Washington-Lee. Assemblies offered a chance for students to share their various talents with fellow classmates and teachers. Jerri Crone, Angela Miller and Laura Vickers (opposite page bottom, right) amused the student body and faculty with a Christmas skit. Music was a major part of the assemblies. The orchestra (opposite page bottom, left) played classical selections, while the band with the help of Mike Horner (opposite page top, right) entertained the audience with pop tunes. The bluegrass band introduced a new sound to Washington-Lee assemblies. This talented group featured Martha Keiger, Donald Warrick, David Gillenwater, James Briggs and Phil Krasney (this page top, left). The choir harmonized to provide many songs that varied from foreign folk to musical hits (opposite page top, left). Jimmy Bramble (opposite page middle, right) used the assemblies to inform the student body of upcoming events and progress made in and around the school by the SCA. The progress of the class treasuries was augmented by a magazine drive. During a school assembly Bruce Sharpe, Zora Coleman, Revetta Rogers and Rita Moore (this page middle) were urged by a large number of prizes to sell magazine subscriptions. By far the most popular assemblies were the pep rallies. The Seniors showed the underclassmen how to win the spirit stick (this page bottom).

Scene 5: Period 3: Business

Business is a huge department here at W-L. About 800 students took business courses offered this year. Classes included Typing I-II, Accounting I-II, Shorthand I, Business Law, Survey of Business Data Process, V.O.T., and Record Keeping. Business also offers two co-curricular clubs; V.O.T. or Vocational Office Training, and FBLA or Future Business Leaders of America. These clubs are related to business and help further business skills.

Scene 4: Period 4 — Lunch, or

This year, the lunch periods were shortened and cafeteria service was expanded to accommodate the influx of new freshman. The lunch rooms became filled to capacity as pictured below. With the longer lines and the shorter period, nothing but a quick run to McDonald's or the Deli was possible. For those who stayed in school, the daily fare consisted of hot meals and cold sandwiches.

At right Hung Nguyen chose the hot meal over going out. Early in the year soda was available, but due to a state law, the machines were turned off. This encouraged more people to go out for lunch.

Intermission

Could the school function

without them?

Many students used their free time to earn extra credits toward graduation. Using a variety of skills, students helped out in the office, guidance, and attendance. Karen Hurdle (opposite page, top right) assisted the office personnel. Jessica Space used her free time to be a runner and a clerical aid to Mrs. McNaughton (opposite page, bottom) in the guidance office. Students also used their previous learning to help fellow classmates and teachers. Bill Mattingly (top) and Ann Kuehn (left) were helpful additions to the science classes. Howard Pennell (opposite page top, left), with his knowledge of cars, showed auto mechanic students the proper way to repair cars. In-school jobs allowed students to gain career experience and benefit the school.

Scene 8: Period 5: Science

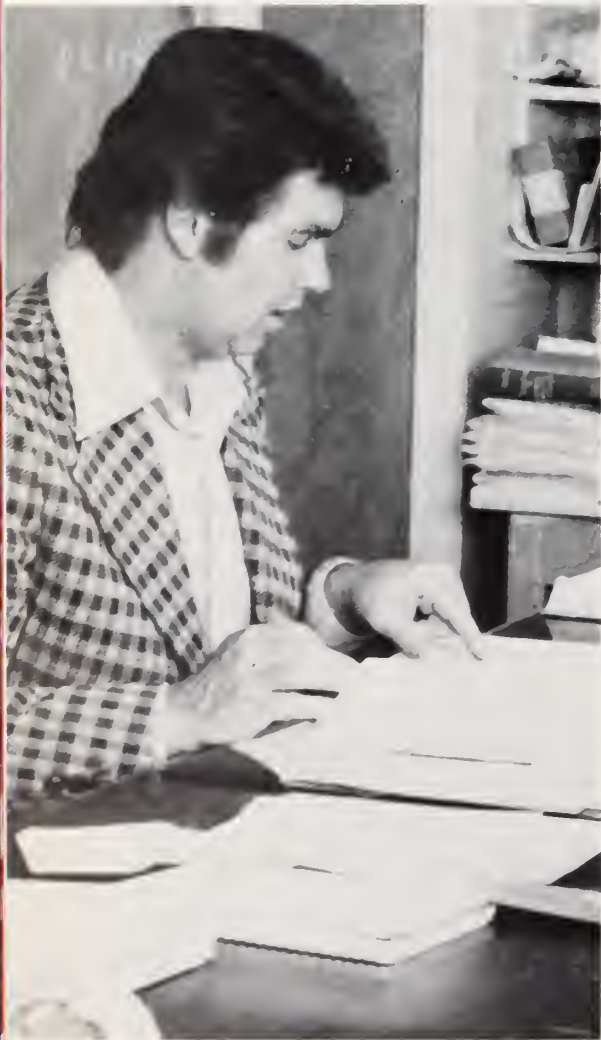

The three major science courses taken by W-L students are biology, chemistry, and physics. There are also other science courses offered such as astronomy, AP biology, and microbiology. These courses are electives, and are offered for those who do not wish to take chemistry or physics.

The students are graded, not only by written tests and homework, but also by experiments and labs done in the classroom.

Explodes with Discoveries

Scene 9: Period 6: From Running

The Physical Education Department at W-L this year went coed! For the first year, W-L's gym classes combined both boys and girls in the same class, with the same teacher. They participated in the same activities and at the same level. The sports in which students took part ranged from football to badmitton. All in all the program has been successful, and the students have had no complaints. Right: Jimmy Mona and He Young Kim jog together for a warm-up. Bottom left: Gary Williams and Richard Brown call the plays. Bottom right: Mr. Smith takes attendance.

to Riding the Road

In Drivers' Education, students learned and practiced good driving habits. Laws and rules of the road were taught with the use of films, books and pamphlets, and guest speakers. This is a rewarding one semester course. Top: Colleen Blackbourne and Noele Rose discuss the strong points of women's driving while Robert Amerman and Mr. Coggins wait patiently. Left: The infamous Drivers' Ed car.

This year at Washington-Lee many changes occurred. The school was not large enough to accommodate the new Freshmen Class. New classrooms were built and departmental offices were converted into classrooms to alleviate this problem. The west side balcony was put into use again to seat the freshmen at assemblies (this page top, right). New lockers (opposite page top, left) were installed in open areas and students were required to obtain their own locks. Due to longer lunch lines, another line (this page bottom, left) was added. Not all changes occurred inside the school. A big change to our community was the construction site of I-66 (opposite page bottom). The road was routed next to W-L and this inconvenienced many students who had to detour around the site. Despite outside destruction, students attempted to beautify W-L with wall murals (this page bottom, right) and a new coat of paint for the stadium press box (opposite page top, right) . . .

Changes in and . . .

AFTERNOON

ORGANIZATIONS AND CLUBS

Organizations and clubs are an important part in the school activities of Washington-Lee students. Such activities as skiing, singing, fund-raising, acting, conversing in foreign languages, and even eating are a part of these clubs. Washington-Lee has a wide range of clubs and organizations, with something for everyone, and the program is a source of pride for this school.

Not all clubs are solely concerned with fund-raising. Several clubs are involved in competitive and scholastic events. Others are filled with members interested in keeping in shape, some mentally and some physically. Some members of the clubs gaze at the stars while others practice to become them. Some relive the past while others research the future. Some play the music, some sing it, and some dance to it. Some inspire pep, some demonstrate it. Even Yearbook serves a function . . .

Act 2, Scene 1

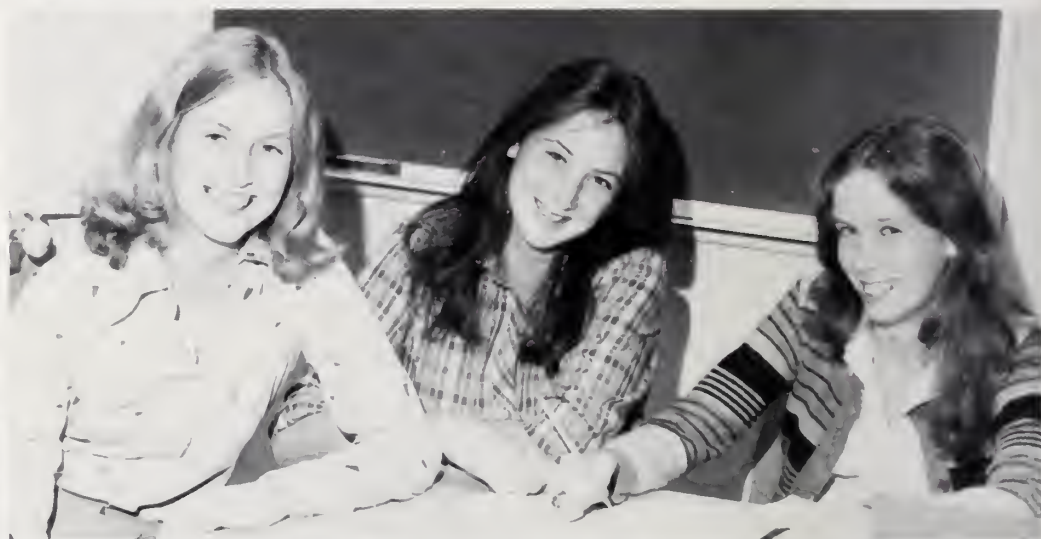

Blue and Gray

The Yearbook class is responsible for the Blue and Gray, distributed annually to Washington-Lee students. Mrs. Click provides the inspiration and experience behind this unique collection of memories. At work on the yearbook is a staff dedicated to capturing and preserving our years at W-L for future generations. Achieving this goal involves investigating and reporting the wide range of interests and activities of W-L's students.

For 17 years, PENMAN, the student run literary magazine of Washington-Lee, has maintained its high standards of published entertainment. Mr. Harocopos, Head of the English Department, has sponsored the magazine throughout its existence. PENMAN is a course taken by senior enthusiasts of literary art. Together, the student staff organizes, edits, publishes, and circulates the magazine which comes out twice a year. The biggest obstacle for the PENMAN staff has been the financial burden accompanying publication. With only a small subsidy given to the staff, PENMAN's major funding has come from weekly popcorn sales after school and at athletic events. Most of the compiled works are contributed by non-staff members. This collection contains fictional stories, non-fiction, reports, reviews, and poetry. Such a variety provides a unique magazine filled with entertaining and intriguing pieces of literary art.

The third period journalism class, taught by Mrs. Click, is responsible for putting out the award winning Crossed Sabres. The newspaper is printed and distributed about once each month. This year's editor is Mike Holleran, pictured top right.

Unlike previous staffs, the '78-'79 team concentrated on writing in-depth articles on such topics as athletic injuries, textbook adoption, junk food, and cheating. These articles seemed to appeal to most every student who read the Crossed Sabres. Mrs. Click will continue teaching journalism next year as a new staff will once again sell ads, learn the essentials of reporting, and distribute finished copies of the Crossed Sabres.

The Astronomy Club is . . .

The 1978-79 W-L Astronomy Club had an active and exciting year. They did a variety of things, including earning money for their observatory, T-shirt selling at the X-mas bazaar, viewing planetarium programs, and becoming familiar with different types of telescopes. They enjoyed having observation parties, taking field-trips to the Air and Space Museum, and going to the Outdoor Lab on an overnight outing. Finally, they also learned how to operate the planetarium stereo on their own. It is evident from this year that future Astronomy Clubs will have great success.

Ron Reinhold

The Washington-Lee Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Krasney, consists of a combination of string instruments players and selected wind and percussion players from the band. The Orchestra gives several concerts a year for junior high schools around the area in addition to performances at W-L assemblies. After-school activities of the orchestra include Christmas, Spring, and evening concerts. The Orchestra also participates in a Regional Orchestra Festival held each year, and in an exchange trip with another high school. Especially talented palyers can audition for positions in the Regional Orchestra which consists of schools from four counties. Many of the Orchestra members plan to continue their present interests with musical careers.

Choir Sings Its Heart Out

The Choir consists of about fifty students from the eleventh and twelfth grades. Each singer must audition to become a member of the choir. The Choir has performed at many area schools and churches, including the National Cathedral, and the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception. However, their performances are not limited to this area. They have performed at Disney World and several New York high schools. The Choir also combines with the orchestra to perform at least one major choral work each year.

Chorus: A Small Group With A Big Sound

The Chorus is a group of students who are mainly ninth and tenth graders. They enjoy singing, and most of them will probably go on and try out for the Choir when they are in eleventh grade. The music of the chorus is usually pop and light classical styles. They perform at our assemblies and concerts at Washington-Lee. They also go with the choir and the Madrigals to perform at the junior high schools in the area.

A.E.M.'s Elizabethan Festival

The Art-English-Music Seminar is a two-hour long humanities seminar which incorporates English 12 with art and music appreciation. One day each week is usually spent on a field trip outside of school to an art gallery, a theater, or on a special in-school activity.

One such activity recently held was the Elizabethan Festival, in which class members recreated Old England at its merriest. The Elizabethan menu consisted of such delicacies as meat pies, parsnips with marigolds, mushroom and leek pastries, and tarts. Entertainment included English Madrigal music, the reading of original sonnets, a recitation of Ann Bolyn's "farewell" speech and other "divertissements" of the period. All guests attended in authentic Elizabethan costumes.

Mrs. Hochholzer, as Queen Elizabeth, and Robin Lewis enjoy the Elizabethan banquet.

Dr. Baxter and Crystal Neal perform for the festival.

Lou Ann Denman recites the "farewell" speech.

Charles Coleman sings of Medieval England.

The main purpose of the International Club is to share and introduce others to international customs and ideas. It is also a service club. Some activities this year included a UNICEF drive, an International dinner, participation in the Christmas Bazaar, and an International assembly.

The 1978-1979 Debate Team consists of, kneeling, Susan Skolnick, Will Planert, Doina Chiacu, and standing, Michael Landis, Harry Moore, Greg Welker. Absent from the picture is David Maloney (co-captain). Washington-Lee's Debate Team, sponsored by Mr. John Harocopos, is an academically oriented extracurricular group which revels in the arts of argumentative logic and public speaking. It participates in the Washington Forensics League (WFL) Tournaments which are held on Saturdays at various intervals throughout the year. It attends the regional and state tournaments in the spring, provided certain qualifications are met. This year the team is debating the energy system in the United States. The topics change every one or two years.

KEY CLUB: THE KEY TO SCHOOL ACTIVITIES.

The Washington-Lee High School Key Club is part of an international service organization dedicated to the school and the community. The Key Club has done many small services for the school such as selling football tickets and setting up for the bazaar. The Key Club's biggest project was sponsoring a Walk-A-Thon for Arlington Hospital which raised over $4,300.00.

AIDING FUTURE SCIENTISTS:

The Science Research Club exists for the purpose of aiding Washington-Lee students scientists with their science projects. Club membership is open to all Enriched Biology students and also to students interested in doing science projects on their own. The Science Research Club provides financial aid and inspirational support, and helps prepare projects for the school and area fairs. It also sponsors projects in the State Fair (Virginia Junior Academy of Sciences) and in other competitive science events. The Club sold Gooney Birds, plants, and bakesale items at the Holiday Bazaar in order to raise money for funding this year.

Washington-Lee's Distributive Education Club of America is a member of both the Virginia and National D.E.C.A. Clubs. The sixty-six student members are those who have an interest in retail marketing, distribution, and fashion merchandising. They not only learn and perfect their skills in the classroom, but most of them also have steady jobs in their interest field. Through local, state, and national club activities, the Distributive Education student is able to refine and practice those skills which are learned in the classroom and on the job. The D.E.C.A. diamond is the club's emblem. Each of the four points represents an area of knowledge, skill, or attitude. The points represent Vocational Understanding, Civic Conscientiousness, Leadership Development and Social Intelligence. All D.E.C.A. activities revolve around these four areas. A pot luck dinner, and coloring-book sales were included on the Fall agenda, while many other activities were planned for the Spring. This year's officers were Karen Hurdle, President; Robin Webb, Vice-President; Kathleen Febrey, Secretary; Dee Johnson, Treasurer; Cindy Martin, Chaplin; and Paige Shepherd, Photographer. Mrs. Ainslie was the club's sponsor.

FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS OF AMERICA

Ski Club: Hits The Slopes

This year's Ski Club was one of the most active clubs in Washington-Lee. Dave Morgan, the original sponsor, helped out with club organization. But, when he left, the job was left for the officers. The first trip was to Killington, Vermont, over Christmas vacation. For four days and three nights, thirty-three novice and veteran skiers enjoyed a wonderful winter vacation battling the slopes amidst plenty of snow. Killington is the largest ski area in the east, consisting of four mountains, sixty trails and slopes, a three-½ mile long Gondola, and four lodges. Weather conditions got better each day and by the last day, it was so sunny that many skiers got sunburned.

Another trip to Seven Springs, Pennsylvania was held in late January. A trip over George Washington's Birthday holiday to Hunter Mountain, New York and one to Quebec, Canada in March were also planned.

Unlike past ski clubs, this year's tried a new idea: Ski Racing. Race courses are held at neighboring areas like Bryce Mountain and Blue Know. There are a few very talented skiers at W-L who enjoy the chance of NASTAR racing.

This year's Ski club presidents were Darrow Leibner and Jackie Wood.

VERMONT

S.C.A. HAS ITS UP DAYS . . .

The job of the Student Council is to incorporate ideas from each class into successful benefits for students and the Arlington community. Council members meet during fourth period daily with teacher sponsor Mr. John Smith. Mr. Smith contributed invaluable by offering his experienced suggestions and a tremendous amount of time.

This year's officers were: President Jimmy Bramble; Parliamentarian David Liss; Secretary and Treasurer Andy Whitson; First Vice-President Lori Moon; Second Vice-President Patti Romanowski; Third Vice-president David Goldschmidt; Senior Senators, Bich-Thuy Tran and Jackie Wood; Junior Senators, Karla Hanson and Pat Conklin; Sophomore Senators, Tamara Cohen and Amador Santalla; Freshman Senators, Kal Bagamane, and Kristin Withers.

The Washington-Lee Student Council Association represents an integral part of student government. There are fourteen members on the counsel: eight senators, three vice-presidents, parliamentarian, treasurer-secretary, and the president. Together, the officers plan, develop, and execute many activities which improve community and student life. Participation in the Christmas bazaar, organization of the Bloodmobile drive, improvement of the parking lot, dances, and trying to stop the locker theft situation, were all activities focused on during the Fall semester. Numerous spring activities were also planned.

Over

The National Beta Club is an active and very popular organization at Washington-Lee. Unlike past clubs, each member of this year's Beta was selected to be in the Club. A written paragraph explaining why one wished to become a member was the prerequisite for selection. The annual Football/Soccer Homecoming Luncheon was a great success and a lot of fun for Beta members as well as for the athletes. Throughout the year, several members volunteered for many community activities including visits to Arlington Hospital. Planned Spring activities also kept the club active. The officers were: Lisa Lipson, President; Paige Shephard, Vice-President; Carmen Machicado, Secretary; Robin Lewis, Treasurer; Anne Kelso, Historian. Club sponsor was Mrs. Baker.

HONOR SOCIETIES

The purpose of the Washington-Lee Honor Societies is to commend the members of each society on their academic achievements in that area. It is indeed a privilege to be so recognized. Congratulations to each student represented.

ELOS HONOR SOCIETY

The purpose of ELOS Honor Society is to recognize students who demonstrate achievement in any of the fine arts: music, painting, sculpture, design, photography, dance, drama, creative writing, etc. Each academic year auditions are held for prospective members followed by an induction dinner at the home of one of the old members. These fall and spring inductions serve as "shows" where the artists can display and share their talents.

Mark Gravallese and Laura Vickers "improve" at the ELOS induction dinner.

A CHORUS LINE

This year, W-L formed a Thespians troupe again after six years of being without one. Thespians is an international organization made up of high school actors and actresses, stage personnel, and drama teachers. Its purpose is to promote the dramatic arts throughout the nation, by creating contacts between schools, providing information, organizing drama festivals and contests, and publishing its own drama magazine. Thespians also honors high school actors and actresses with awards and scholarships. To be a Thespians, one must have earned at least 10 points in dramatic activities. The Thespians are in charge of the new theatre — ushering and running lights at all functions. The Thespians also go to see shows together. Some of the shows they went to this year include Hello Dolly! and A Chorus Line. In January, they participated in the first Arlington Drama Festival. Thespians Members: Mark Gravalles (Mgt. assistant to Director), Paul Troyer (Vice-President), Ruth Yamamoto (Treasurer), Tamara Cohen (Secretary), Michael Neff (President), Patty Acha (Points Chrm.), Rachel McCoy, Frances Fortna, Jerri Lynn Crone, Barbara Mullis, Christie Golden, Noele Rose, Mimi Quinn, Marjorie Woodman, Carol Houston, Melanie Galloway, Lydia Belateche, Anne Ingrassia, Robert Amerman, Teri Cope, Eric Vickland, Mark McLaughlin, Kim Wray, Lynda Reuter, Laura Vickers, Matt Blanco, Nicole Ruffine, Wanda Pope, Ed Sale, Jeremy Radosh, Keith Edwards, Dan McInnis, Angela Miller, Janece Flint, Chris Gaynor, Andy Meade, Martha Shelton.

Time for FUN?!

TIME-OUT

To prevent students from cutting classes, release time was only offered first and sixth periods. Morning release time was preferred by those who liked to sleep late and those who did not wish to attend the assemblies. Afternoon release time was chosen by students who wanted to complete their homework early. Janet Stocks (this page, top left) studied dilligently. Natalie Huko (opposite page, top) preferred to study in a more relaxed atmosphere. Some students (opposite page bottom, center) used the library to gossip, while others browse through magazines (this page, bottom). The cafeteria was a popular place to socialize with friends. Liz Talley and Terry Reed (this page top, right) had an engrossing conversation. Mark Fowler (opposite page bottom, left) used his release time to relax, but Susie Maghan was all work, work, work. Bruce Sharpe (opposite page bottom, right) showed his enthusiasm for Friday, a real time out on November 10 when W-L celebrated Veterans' Day.

Generals Generate

how they feel about the J.V. Football Team. The Pep Club put a lot of time and effort into promoting spirit on the mornings before the games. Lockers were decorated and filled with food and candy for the athletes. Mary Bacas works on some lucky athlete's locker.

This new television season saw the coming of many new shows. Out of all these shows, only a few made it to mid-season. For those who could not find a new or old show that they would enjoy, there were always many sports shows and specials to watch. Some of the variety specials this year were devoted to the celebration of Mickey's 50th birthday (this page center, left). One of the most exciting, prime time, sports show this year was the Ali vs. Spinks fight (this page bottom, center), which saw the crowning of a new champion. Adding to the sports excitement was their rematch, where Ali regained his title.

Pep Club: The Spirit Within

For those of you who are not familiar with what the Pep Club does, just ask any male athlete. To them, Pep Club members are the ones responsible for their decorative lockers stuffed with cakes, pies, cookies, brownies, candy, and gum. The elaborate locker designs root the "Jocks" on, and provide that extra bit of energy needed to win a game or match. Many members spend over $50 to decorate a locker in just one season alone. It cannot be denied, however, that the teams appreciate the work involved. Jamie Amico, junior football stud says, "I can't believe how much time and money they spend on us! It really means a lot; and, if I ever find out who does my locker, I'm going to give her a good time for sure."

President this year is senior Cindy Martin, and Treasurer is Melanie Galloway.

The Bruins

Generals get

During the week of October 16 the Generals celebrated Homecoming. Monday was Blow 'Em Up and Lick 'Em Day. Paige Shepherd, Beth Ann Frisk and Claire Glendening (above) began the week with spirit. Tuesday was Sock 'Em and Stomp 'Em Day, and those feet (opposite page top, left) were the terror of the halls.

MR. WINKLER'S BIRTHDAY PARTY

At the Arlington County Drama Festival on January 27 at Kenmore Junior High, the actors at many Arlington County schools had the opportunity to display their acting skills to other actors and judges who rated them accordingly.

The Washington-Lee Thespian Society presented "Mr. Winkler's Birthday Party." It was a poignant dramatic commentary about society's neglect of the sick and elderly.

of guilt that accompanies their neglect of their uncle, Mr. Winkler. Bottom Right: Robert Amerman as Superintendent of the nursing home gives a pseudo-eulogy in memory of Mr. Winkler, as the nurse, Anastasia Bouras, solemnly listens.

The strange-looking people on this page brought an unusual thing to W-L this year. They are a branch of the Thespians who call themselves "The Groupe." They are, of course, W-L's own improvisational company. Their debut at the Thanksgiving Assembly caught the school by surprise. They practiced twice a week to provide the school with refreshing entertainment through several performances during the year.

Counter-clockwise from top right: The "Groupe" doing their thing; Eric Vickland, Mimi Quinn, Neil Stern Being carried by Jeremy Radosh. Beth Quinn, Ruth Yamamoto with Neil Stern and finally Jeremy Radosh.

The Madrigals is a small ensemble consisting of fifteen people. The requirements for being a Madrigal are that one must be a senior in the choir and demonstrate a great talent for singing. They perform at churches, club organizations, stores, and other schools. A few places where they have performed include the Lee Mansion, National Airport and Woodies. Their main goals are professionalism and pleasing the audience. For those reasons, they rehearse, everyday, at 6:30 a.m.! Their rehearsals really pay off — the W-L Madrigals are famous for being the best.

The Band Leads On . . .

Under the direction of Mr. Gerald Lewis, the pride of Washington-Lee, its marching band, started their fall practice on August 25. New songs, new personalities, and new student directors, Anne Ingrassia and Joy Epperly, marked another marching band season. This year the Band performed before, during, and after each football game, win or lose. As the band performed each stanza of "W-L Will Shine Tonight," the bleachers actually seemed to vibrate. Temperatures rose, and heartbeats pounded. These uncontrollable sensations caused a surging tumult which boiled over into the crowd chant of "W-L Will Shine Tonight." It cannot be denied that the marching band provided that essential spark of enthusiasm which created General pride and school spirit throughout the season. Diverse Repertoire, precision formations, and skilled musicians all contributed to the uniqueness and originality of Washington-Lee's marching band. Upper left: Ed Sale and Mary Kiernan are proud of their work. Upper right: Football players are slightly startled as Barbara Shuman marches by.

The Drill Team is a counterpart to the marching band. They add a finishing touch to the band's music with their own formations and dance steps. They help to lead the cheers, sing the songs and clap. Their pom-poms are often seen throughout the crowd as an added pep promoter. They spend many hours practicing their routines, practicing nights with the band, and marching through the halls on the mornings of home games.

Majorettes Glitter

The Majorettes, with their sparkling costumes and glowing batons, lent a festive air to the drill team and marching band routines. Their faultless twirling led the band through formations and drills, and best of all, except for a few chilly Friday's early in the season, most nights were so warm the girls did not suffer from the elements. Twirling is hard work, and above, Co-captain Laura Sisson recuperates after half-time. This year's squad consisted of Katie Wulf, kneeling, Co-captain Laura, Debbie Pattison, and Captain Amber Brenner. Cheering in the stands is also a big part of the majorettes role, with their mascot leading the way, (bottom right.)

Attendants Add Sparkle to Homecoming

Senior Homecoming Attendants Dennis Muse, Cindy Martin, Chrissy Del Gallo, Charlie Denny (substituting for Barry Thompson), Jimmy Bramble and Patty Acha, received flowers and recognition during halftime. Barry Thompson and Chrissy Del Gallo were announced as the King and Queen.

When you think back on our Class of '79, what will be some of your greatest memories? Each of us will have our own special memories, but certain highlights of our three years will be remembered by all of us.

When we arrived at W-L, we began a new era. Our school had been rebuilt, and had acquired a new principal, Dr. Sharbaugh. We, however, at the time, did not recognize our importance, as we were just sophomores. We soon began to feel at home and as we left our junior high friends and met new people, we became unified as a class. We joined clubs, got involved in sports, and "got into" the W-L social life.

A rash of vandalism caused the school administration to close down W-L's open school policy. Teachers monitored the halls, I.D. cards were issued, and skipping became harder.

At the beginning of our junior year, our athletic teams were moved from the great Falls District to the Northern District, which meant tougher competition and longer rides for away games. This action was taken to ease tension between W-L and their long-time arch-rivals, Wakefield and Yorktown. We continued to play these teams in non-district competition, however.

The final exam exemption policy, important to all classes, was altered in our junior year. Due to the policy change, only straight-"A" students could be exempt from finals.

Along with changes within the school, there was a major change in the surrounding community. I-66 slashed through Arlington, leaving W-L with no back yard.

The year we had all waited for, our senior year, finally arrived. Along with football games, homework, and parties, we had to start thinking about the future. We took SAT's, visited colleges, and filled out applications.

All too soon, the time came to be fitted for caps and gowns, signalling that the end of our high school experience was near.

Although we are looking forward to graduation, we all know that it will mean saying goodbye to W-L and many special friends we have made here .

When our Senior Class officers took office, they boarded a sinking ship. At the end of our junior year, we had only raised one fourth of the needed $8000 for graduation and the prom. It looked as though we might have to have our prom in the gym! Our newly elected officers, however, got right down to work. They organized fund-raising activities of all kinds: car washes, a magazine drive, the Homecoming Dance and the Holiday Bazaar. Our class sold M&M's, "General Mania" buttons, and, of course doughnuts. Due to their efforts, we won't have to have our prom in the gym, after all!

We, the Senior Class, would like to express our thanks to our hard-working Senior Class officers:

The culmination of the Spirit Week activities was the Homecoming Spirit assembly. Each day the cheerleaders and other spirited students dressed according to the day's theme. Pep Club members not only decorated the football players' lockers at the end of the week, but also decorated their houses and yards with toilet paper, banners, and balloons.

Enthusiasm built up all week and came to a peak Friday afternoon at the Spirit Assembly. Spirited members of every class came prepared to win the Spirit Stick contest, with banner, confetti, toilet paper, and noisemakers. But, the Senior Class won, which is only fitting. Claire Glendening, opposite page, top left, leads the Senior Class in a rousing cheer while Patty Acha and Lynda Reuter, bottom, join in. LIFE

We all have formed strong friendships with fellow students and members of the faculty. Many of these friendships will remain, after we have graduated, to influence our futures. Our teammates, teachers, boy-friends and girlfriends will hold special places in our hearts. These people with whom we have shared three years are special to us and will not be forgotten. Many seniors are bound for college in the fall of '79, and have been spending lots of time investigating schools. As deadlines approach, seniors have to get school records, teacher references and personal statements into the mail — an awesome task. The college application is one of the most important steps in a person's academic life and is taken very seriously. Washington-Lee's counselors are helpful and teachers are cooperative with regard to references; it seems the problem is finding time to write personal statements. Anyway, after the application is in, the hard part begins — the waiting. April fifteenth will come!

We seniors all have been to a whole lot of assemblies, good and bad. We've been to pep rallies, weight-lifting exhibitions, Blood mobile assemblies, and Choir/Orchestra concerts. We've seen them all; they're mandatory. Assemblies bring together our whole student body giving performers a good opportunity to display their skill. At far left, the Senior Class goes crazy at a pep rally. On this page, Jimmy Bramble, Student Council President, speaks to the student body.

According to the U.S. Department of Labor, 42% of the male and 37% of the female high school seniors hold jobs. At W-L, a great many seniors work. With the earning of money in mind, we gave up our free time to pay for that trip to Florida or that used Camaro. Some of us needed to supplement our family's income or to save for college, but all the working seniors had to deal with late nights and early school mornings. Nobody ever said that school lunches were supposed to be good, but we've had our share of trouble. Our lunches this year undoubtedly took the cake. What is a split lunch anyway? Holiday Bazaar

If you missed this year's Holiday Bazaar, organized by the Senior Class, you missed a good time. For a fee of $10, any group could rent a table to sell their variety of jewelry, food or just junk. It turned out to be a fun and profitable event, despite the unco-operative rainy weather. Our Senior Class made $650 on the table fees and our "deli" table and gift-wrapping table, at which Leila Byron, Carmen

Machicado, and Beth Ann Frisk are hard at work. Scott Reynolds convincingly sells a JA cutting board.

Creating

There are a few students who, in a couple of minutes, can vandalize the school, but there are more students who try and help make the school a little more pleasant. For example, at left, Ginny Thomas encourages her "general" to success by decorating his locker. At the center, one can see the foreign influence at W-L. On the opposite page, right, Mark Gravalesse draws Ziggy on Mr. Bourne's door during the Holiday Door-Decorating Contest.

By the Senior year, the amount of studying a person does often takes its toll; and eyes may need some help to function at their peak. Do you need your eyes checked? The mural on the stairway in the math section, above, serves as a good eye chart. Above, John Zug needs more than glasses to help him.

Seniors Have Musical Talents of All Types

Years of hard practice have gone into the sound of fine music that can be heard in the hallowed halls of Washington-Lee. Experienced seniors add much to each musical performance. And the types of performances do vary. Chris Delmar, right, helps the Madrigals raise money by performing in the Talent Show. Madrigals sing for the people shopping at the Holiday Bazaar, far right. Madrigals include: Elaine Pappas, Richard Oberleilner, Pam Killen, Jeff Cornwell, Nancy Marshall, Mark Moody, Linda Gilbert, Karen Flaten, Kevin McDaniel, Melinda Lee, and Sharon Micheal. Karen Munley and Laura Teschendorf, bottom, march through W-L halls raising spirits for the football game. Choir and Orchestra, below, joined together to share the traditional Hallelujah Chorus.

This is a salute to those hardy seniors who have completed six years of a language. These few seniors are the remnants of the many less dedicated students who didn't stick it out. Six years of one language is a trying experience which requires a great deal of fortitude. At left, Leila Byron, Robbie Nieweg, Claire Glendening and Chris Jones are members of Mr. MacIntyre's French VI class. Above, Laurie Cahill, Liz Tally, Miguel Hernandez, Robert Weatherwax, Mike Landis and Robert Oxendine are Dr. Gorman's Spanish VI class.

It becomes progressively harder, as the year draws to a close, to keep our minds on nouns and verbs. There are so many more pressing thoughts on our minds. For example, Tina Moshos thinks, "What will I wear tonight?", while Robert Oxendine dreams about making that touchdown for Duke next year. Whatever our immediate thoughts might be, we have all thought at length about the future. We've thought about our personal fate and the fate of our friends. There's an unknown future in store for each one of us, but we know that with determination and hard work, and a little luck, we will reach our . . .

Whatever your individual goal is now — whether it be stacking 300 milk cartons as Alex Bernardo is doing on this page, bottom left, or getting that pyramid perfect, as the cheerleaders are doing, bottom right — your goal is very important. You must be willing to put in many hours and much hard work to achieve it, as Bill Quanrud does. The rewards, however, make it worth the trouble. Gail Rickerich and Dennis Muse, on the opposite page, top right, finally understand that physics experiment. Your goals will be more easily recognized because you were a graduate of W-L. In some seniors, such as Anne Thoburn, bottom left, leadership qualities can already be seen. John Chellman has already become a Master of Ceremonies. We can all feel proud that we are on the way to reaching our pinnacles, with a W-L diploma.

Being a junior class officer entailed a great many responsibilities. The most important responsibility was that of raising money. Some of the ideas the officers came up with were picnics, dances and animal sales. The officers had to get their ideas across to the student body through class meetings, and then find volunteers to carry these ideas to completion. Raising money was not their only responsibility, they also sponsored the Thanksgiving Assembly. Phoebe Vernier, below, tells of upcoming events during a class meeting. Junior class officers Phoebe Vernier, Pat Conklin, and Karla Hansen watch the junior sponsored Thanksgiving Assembly. Junior Class Officers: Melanie Galloway, Secretary; Beth Quinn, Vice-President; Ron Reinhold, President; Phoebe Vernier, Treasurer; Leslie Bradford, Class Rep.; Karla Hansen, Senator; and Pat Conklin, Senator.

The American Civilization Classes did many things throughout the year, such as a visit to Williamsburg. One day was devoted to crafts of Early Americans. Shown at left Cheryl Hartman displays a rug she worked on; Above Crissy Umbel and Chris Roberson show what a good time they are having; Far Left Mark Simpson gets ready to Chug-A-Jug of early American Cider. American Civilization provides a good learning experience for all involved.

As Homecoming drew near, the Junior class got in gear. The float committee spent countless hours working enthusiastically on their float, as shown by Laurie Moon and Pat Conklin in the picture below. At the pep rally, the Juniors put forth a great effort, but alas, they did not win. However they did win in the float contest with Karen Cadwalader featured in the float. Many Juniors showed their spirit at the game by selling balloons (as shown at the lower right with Dan McInnis) entertaining the crowds during halftime, and yelling in support of our team.

Juniors Present Thanksgiving

Being a junior meant not only concern for who had the most spirit, or who won the float contest, it also included work in the field of academics. With work came tests such as PSAT's (preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Tests) and SAT's (Scholastic Aptitude Tests). Taking the SAT's meant a junior had to come to school one early Saturday morning and work for three hours on questions in the fields of English and mathematics. When all was through, he waited for a month or more to get his score to see how he did. Top of page: Doina Chiacu gets in last minute preparation for a test. The Iowa tests were given to all juniors during English periods at the end of the first report period, above right.

The Class of 81 is surely a class to be remembered. Although we still have two years left, we've started out great. We had a successful Thanksgiving dance; we held first place in the magazine drive; and surely the fact that we came close to winning the spirit contest shows that we are an enthusiastic group. We have the capabilities of accomplishing much more in the next two years and are sure to be one of the most memorable classes of Washington-Lee. Of course, the sophomores do need to relax once in awhile as shown by Eric Kane in the right hand picture.

In these changing times the biggest change to hit Washington-Lee is, without a doubt, the addition of the ninth grade or Freshman Class. Juniors and Seniors have suddenly found the halls to be more crowded than they've ever been, the Commons, during lunch, has turned into a mob scene. The Sophomores don't mind bringing the Freshmen along to W-L for this insures that the Sophomores will no longer be the "low-man." One can be certain that the average Freshmen is not too happy about the situation. Deprived of the equal of seniority in a Jr. High School, they have a right to hold a sizable grudge.

The opening of the '78-'79 Washington-Lee school year found an increase in faculty members as well as students. This, of course, was due to the addition of the freshmen class. Their presence has led to more variety in the programs offered here at Washington-Lee. This means a better Washington-Lee for everyone! Left: Mr. Smith starts out his day. Here at Washington-Lee the first freshmen class has shown a lot of enthusiasm. Though, the first pep rallies and assemblies found them unsure of the procedures, ninth graders learned quickly.

They started off the year by placing a strong second in the homecoming float contest, with the theme 'Bruise the Bruins.' The magazine subscription contest further heightened this spirit and they came in second. The class of '82 will continue to be a spirited one in the years to come. To the right, Kathrine Leupold (top) and Jamie O'Leary (bottom) show their school spirit with the freshmen homecoming float.

Ninth grade officers are a new organization at W-L. This gives the freshmen a chance to compete with the upper grades. It also means one more class to compete for dance weekends and other fund raising activities. The threat of their first year as an organization was not great, but the freshmen have the advantage of three more years. Class officers for the '78-'79 school year were: (Bottom) Kal Bagamane, Senator; Anne Undeland, Representative to the School Board; Kristin Withers, Senator. (Top) Mike Doherty, Treasurer; Liz Reynolds, Vice-President; Tim Ingrassia, President; Janet Pattison, Secretary. (Upper Right) Kal Bagamane, (Lower Right) Tim Ingrassia.

As the school year comes to an end the Freshmen can look back on their first year at W-L as somewhat successful. They end this year with great hopes and expectations for their sophomore year. Next year will, without a doubt, be different. The "lowman" criticism will be given to the class of '83 leaving the class of '82 to more important things. And as time runs out, Mike McGhee seems to be amused at something he has heard or seen! (opposite page right) Gary Clark relaxes in the commons after school with a coke. (opposite page left) Katherine Boller does her thinking in the commons.

CLIMAX!!!

"All the worlds a stage, And all the men and women merely players . . ." The play is coming to an end. All the work that we've done, all the changes that we've been through are leading up to the climax — graduation. Throughout the show we have faced problems and pleasures, and we have reacted to our various situations. During the play, our characters have grown and developed.

D E N O U M E N T

As Seniors come to the end of their "run" in this show, they are preparing for the next show — the next role — whether it be that of college student or career person. The whole world is theirs to conquer — to dazzle. The entire world is now their "stage."

For the underclassmen, however, the W-L show must go on . . . They will take off their make-up and go home for the summer, but they will be back next year . . . in a new show, with a new script, with different scenes. The dialogue and costumes may change, but the stage high school and the climax graduation remain the same every year, every performance.

“All the world’s a stage. And all the men and women merely players. They have their exits and their entrances . . . And one man in his life plays many parts . . .”
 The Class of 1979 is exciting — to play other parts — sans regrets, sans restrictions, sans impossibilities, with everything — The World.
